CATHEDRAL OF THE MADELEINE

LLC 2002

331 East South Temple, Salt Lake City, Utah 84111-1226 • (801) 328-8941 • utcathedral.com

MEDIA INFORMATION

= Available spots for media during special events. Space is limited.

= Locations that are off-limits.

MEDIA INQUIRIES

For general media inquiries, permission to use Cathedral photos, or get in touch about event access, please contact the Cathedral's Director of Communications Anthony Mazur at amazur@utcotm.org.

PHOTO/VIDEO GUIDELINES

Photographers and videographers should only set-up in the designated media areas in the back and East transept unless permission is granted otherwise. They must not enter the prohibited area in red on the included floorplan. Working media can not step into the altar area or onto its marble steps and must stay out of the front aisles to not obstruct services.

Please no flash photography or artificial lights during liturgies. Tripods must not interfere with worshippers and must remain stationary. In a spirit of reverence, media are asked to be as unobtrusive as possible.

CATHEDRAL HISTORY

The Cathedral of the Madeleine is the only cathedral in the United States dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene. Built on land purchased by Salt Lake's first bishop, Lawrence J. Scanlan, construction was completed and the church dedicated on August 15, 1909. "The Cathedral of the Madeleine" became its official name under the leadership of Bishop Joseph Glass, who also commissioned the beautiful murals in 1918.

To learn more about the history of the Cathedral of the Madeleine, see historical photos, or see a pictoral tour online, please visit utcathedral.com/history.

VISIT UTCATHEDRAL.COM